THE SENATE REORGANIZATION

A RESOLUTION PASSED TRANSFERRING THE OFFICES.

BUT THE NEW SECRETARY, SERGEANT-AT-ARMS AND CHAPLAIN WILL NOT TAKE OFFICE

TILL THE LIND CONGRESS. [av telegraph to the tribune.]
Washington, April 6.—The reorganization of the Senate was not exactly "effected" to-day, but it was at least determined upon and a certain day fixed which will relieve the anxiety of three patriots and candidates for office. Those who remember the longdrawn-out squabble over the offices of the senate which took place in 1881, and the other contest two years later, which marked the return of the Republicans to power and gave them control of the "most august body the world over saw," To quote the Vice-President, may well wonder at the lack of bitterness which has marked this. To listen to the eulogies delivered in the Senate to-day by Democratic Senators upon Republican officers about to leave their posts, however deserved, could not but raise grave misgivings either as to the sanity of the speakers or of their sincerity. What "political necessity," for instance, deman's that a Democratic chaplain hereafter shall invoke the Divin blessing instead of any other chaplain; what "political necessity" is met by substituting a sergeant-at-arms of Democratic proclivities for one who is known to have been a Republican? One will discharge his duties—and they are at best those of a head waiter—as well as the other. Neither of these offices is one of great censideration, and the pay in one is insignificant and in the other too small to compensate any man of spirit for the duty of looking the personal comforts of the "august Senators." The question may well be asked: What gain do the Democrats derive by securing the adoption of a resolution which designates three men as entitled to had assisted the board's work to the amount of take office some months hence, not until December next, perhaps? The answer to this question is that the action of to-day puts a stop to the contentions which marked the deliberations of the Democratic caucus when it came to consider the "political ne-These contention cessity" of dividing the spoils. ere bitter in the extreme and led to the enactment of scenes, it is said, which conservative and cautious leaders like Gorman did not care to see renewed. Another reason was that Mr. Bright, the sergeant-atarms elect, did not dare to trust his chances for election to the uncertainty of delay, which might have meant the reaping of a new crop of candidates, combinations of opposing elements and other possibilities too numerous and too painful to mention. He used his influence, therefore, to bring about an ediate determination of the question of reorganization of the Senate.

In doing this, however, his friends in the Senate ere-compelled to yield to the Republican demand that the Senate do now proceed to the election of secretary, Sergeant-at-Arms and Doorkeeper and Chap-lain; that the officers to be elected shall only enter lain; that the officers to be elected shall only enter on the discharge of their duties on the first day of the meeting of the LiHd Congress, whether in extraordinary or regular session; and that the present incanacetts shall continue in office until that day. After some discussion it went over-till 250/clock.

Aft that time Mr. Manderson said that the resolution was entirely satisfactory to himself and the Senators on his side of the Chamber. It was in line with the traditions and precedents of the Senate. He complimented the present incumbents of the offices and said he did not believe it possible that the clerical force of the Secretary's office could be improved. He was glad to pay that tribute to Mr. McCook. He also complimented the sergeant at-arms, his force, and the chapilation.

Mr. German also bore testimony to the efficiency and worth of the officers of the senate, and said it was the universal desire of Senators on both sides of the Chamber that there should be no unseemly struggle that might create an impression that the change of officers was merely for the sake of getting possession of the few small offices connected with the Senate, and he expressed the regret that the original rule of permanency in the offices of the Senate had ever been interfered with.

Further encomiums on these officers were contributed by Senators Harris, Palmer, Voorhees and Blackburn. The resolution was then acreed to without division; as were also three other resolutions offered by Mr. Gorman, electing William R. Cox. of North Carolina, secretary of the Senate; Richard J. Bright, of Indiana, sergeant-at-arms and doorkeeper, and William H. Milburn, D. D., of Hilmols, chaplain.

MINISTER SMITH NOT INFORMED. NO RECALL HAS REACHED HIM FROM THE HAWAIIAN GOVERNM

Washington, April 6.-The Department of State was informed to-day that the Australia brought to San Francisco yesterday from Honolulu a number of despatches from Minister Stevens, at Honolula, which are now on their way to Washington by mail. Dr. Mott Smith, Hawalian Minister to the United States, called at the State Department to-day and had an interview with Secretary Gresham. He informed the Secretary that he had received no infilmation that the would be recalled by the Provisional Government as stated in a San Francisco dispatch this morning. Neither Mr. Thurston nor Mr. Carter, of the Hawalian Annexation Commission, is in the city at pres Mr. Carter is in Boston, but is expected to re turn to-morrow or Saturday; the date of Mr. Thurston's return is uncertain. He left for Chicago two weeks ago, announcing that he would be absent a feasy only on World's Fair business, but vesterday his baggage was forwarded to him on a telegraphic ment of the present extraordinary session of the Sen-ate is apparent from the way Senators are leaving the city. When the Senate convened this morning it was nd almost impossible to get a voting quorum. Even on a call of the Senate a quorum was obtained only nbers switching their pairs and straining conatorial courtesy a point or two. Among those who have left town are Senators Frye, Pettigrew, Dixon, Gallinger, Hale, Welcott and Teller. Mr. Quay has been in Florida for some time recuperating his health, and Mr. Vilas is off fishing, it having been impossible to inform him of the death of his daughter. It is not ukely that he will return to Washington this session This morning Mr. Allison started for his home in Du? buque, lowa. On the same train were Frederick ass and his wife and James G. Blaine, the latter bound for Chicago.

Under the circumstances it is easy to see that the nour for the dissolution of this session must soon come, and the passage to day of the resolutions re rganizing the passage to day of the resolutions re-ganizing the elective officers of the Senate only ings that hour nearer. There are now but two or ree important foreign missions to fill and the Dis-set of Columbia Court of Appeals. As soon as that determined upon the President will inform the Sen-e that he has no further business to submit and an journment will be taken at once.

nine principal reasons why such a change should not be made, the last of them being that it would result in the overthrow of the whole scheme of the Senate and, in the end, of the whole scheme of the Senate and, in the end, of the whole scheme of the National Constitution as designed and established. He contrasted the tone of public sentiment now and forty years ago—the contrast not being to the advantage of the past. METHODISTS LISTEN TO REPORTS.

SECOND DAY OF THE NEW-YORK EAST CONFER-

ENCE'S SESSION-MISSION WORK IN MEXICO. Danbury, Conn., April 6.-The second day of the annual session of the New-York East Conference opened with a prayer-meeting at 8 o'clock. The regular business meeting opened an hour later, Bishop Ninde presiding. Resolutions offered by the Rev. Dr. John A. Roche were adopted, congratulating and commending the Rev. Dr. W. T. The Rev. Dr. Mains, Superintendent of the Brooklyn Church Society, reported that that body had received in cash and pledges $23,000, and that gratitying results had been obtained in unpromising regions. The Rev. Dr. Payne, general secretary of the dist Board of Education, said that Sunday-schools $62,000 during the last year.

This afternoon the anniversary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society was celebrated. Z. P. Denler, of Long Island City, read the report of the society. She said there were 295 churches in the Conference, 138 of which contribute to the support of the society. Miss Veta O. Greer, a teacher Wiley Institute, Japan, related her experience and the results of her observations in China and Japan.

An audience that filled the Methodist Church attended the evening session of the Conference, in further celebration of the anniversary of the Missionary Society. The Rev. John W. Butler, who is at the ary Society. The Rev. John W. Butler, who is at the head of the Methodist missionary work in Mexico, and who has just returned after having been in the field nineteen years, gave statistics showing the growth of the work there. Twenty-five years ago there was not a libble in Mexico; today there are 417 churches, nearly 100 of which are Methodist. It was announced that the anniversary exercises of the Conference institute, which were to have been held to-morrow afternoon, would be postponed on account of the illness of the Rev. Dr. A. J. F. Behrends, of Brooklyn, who was to have made an address.

were compelled to yield to the Republican demand that the time-honored traditions of the body should not be violated by reorganization at the special session. The present officials, therefore, will hold over until the first session of the Lilid Congress.

As soon as the reading of yesterday's journal was finished Mr. Gorman called up the resolution heretofore effered by him for the election of Senate ofheces and presented a substitute for it. The substitute was that the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate do now proceed to the election of the Senate of the Senate do now proceed to the senate of the Senate do now proceed to the senate of the Senate do now proceed to the senate of the Senate do now proceed to the senate of the Senate do now proceed to the senate of the Senate of the Senate do now proceed to the senate of the Senate of the Senate do now proceed to the senate of noon the Women's Home Missionary Society met in the Asbury Church. Addresses were made by Mrs. S. II. Mansfield and Mrs. Annie C. Ruddy. Dr. Keene led an evangelistic service in St. Paul's at 4 p. m., and in the evening the anniversary of the Church Extension Society was held in St. Paul's. The Rev. J. Y. Bates and the Rev. Dr. W. A. Spencer addressed the meeting. The Rev. Dr. J. R. Day preached the conference sermen at 7:45 p.m. in the Asbury Church.

NEW-JERSEY MEN AGAINST HORSE-RACING. The Newark Conference opened its second day's ession yesterday by receiving the reports of the presiding elders of the various districts. When the Rev Charles S. Ryman, of the Elizabeth district, was called he made an attack on Prohibition Park, Staten Island. He said the place was a desecration of the Sabbath. It gave people a ride in an electric car, music and a plate of ice cream for 10 cents. Ministers within ten miles of it were glad when cold weather came and shut it up. The Rev. Solomon Parsons, who was once the Prohibition candidate for Governor, defended the park and said it did a great deal of good. The debate was shut off by a motion to print the re-

Presiding Elder Van Benschoten, of the Newark district, said he had incorporated upon his report a ref-erence to the racetrack, which he read. It was as follows: "Our people are incensed beyond expression over recent infamous legislation. Their hely wrath will increase in intensity until the bills legalizing raceassociate vices are repealed." "I would suggest."

horse racing is not illegal in New-Jersey and gambling is, the report should be altered in that respect." "It doesn't matter," said the Rev. L. R. Dunn

"There's no horse-racing without gambling." The report was adopted without a dissenting voice.

A delegation from the New-Jersey Conference, headed by the Rev. Dr. Hanlon, was then introduced. Dr. Hanlon said that New-Jersey had never before been disgraced by such infamous legislation. The New-Jersey Conference had determined to drop everything else until this evil was remedied. He then presented several resolutions from his Conference which were unanimously adopted by the Newark

The guests of the evening were General Stewart I. The guests of the evening were General Stewart I. Woodford, of Brooklyn, and Joseph Howard, jr. They addressed the union on "Greater New-York." The speakers were introduced by the president of the union, Dr. Wendell C. Phillips. General Woodford was in favor of the consolidation of the two great scaport cities. He thought their union was only a question of time. If New-York hoped to remain the leading city of the Union, General Woodford said, it would have to take in Brooklyn, or Brooklyn would become the greatest city by taking in Brooklyn would become the greatest city by taking i New-York. Chicago, the speaker said, was becoming the New-tork. Chicago, the speaker said, was becoming the centre of an immense population; before many years it would outgrow New-York in size unless the union with Brooklyn were effected. General Woodford spoke of the corrupt local government of the two cities, and said that

POLITICAL ODDS AND ENDS.

RHODE ISLAND LEGISLATURE MUST ACT. NO STATE OFFICERS ELECTED-OFFICIAL COUNT NECESSARY TO DECIDE WHETHER BROWN

OR BAKER HAS A PLURALITY. Providence, R. I., April 6 (special).-The result of the State election was no surprise. It had been under-stood for several weeks that there would be no elec-tion by the people, owing to the increased Prohibition vote; but the nearly even balance maintained by the two leading parties was not anticipated. The total vote for Governor, by the Warden's count, was as follows: Dr. Russell Brown (Rep.), 22,081; David S. Eaker, Jr. (Dem.), 22,073; Henry B. Metcalt (Pro.),

The official count will be necessary to determine whether Brown or Enker has a plurality. The total vote for Governor in 1802 was 54,070.

Messrs. Young and Aldrich, Democratic candidates for Lieutenant-Governor and Attorney-General, respectively, and Messrs. Bennett and Clark, Republican candidates for Secretary of State and General Tree arer, respectively, have slight pluralities, but all lack the constitutional majority. The General Assembly, which must now choose the State officers, stands as follows in grand committee: Republicans, 40; Demo crats, 37; no election, 31; necessary for a choice, 55 As the Republicans have the sitting Lieutenant-Governor with the vote of a Senator, they actually have forty-one votes, and they therefore lack fourteen of the necessary fifty-five. Nineteen out of the thirty-one members not elected are to come from Providence and Pawtucket. If the Democrats can carry both cities, they will secure control; but the vote of yesterday shows that the parties are evenly It is expected that some of the tion vote will come to the Republicans at the second election. That election in this city will be held on Priday, April 14. The doubling of the Prohibition vote was due largely to Metcall's personal popularity and to the hard work put in by the National Com-mittee. At the local option elections, license was generally successful.

Ex-Governor John W. Davis makes his re-entry into politics by being chosen as a Senator from Pawinto politics by being chosen as a Senator from Pawturket, and was the only man on the ticket to receive a majority. Ellery H. Wilson, the Republican leader of the House, failed to secure a majority, owing to local difficulties; he will be elected on the second trial. The vote for Congress was rather surprising. The vote in the 1st District was: Laphan (Dem.), 11,298; Bull (Rep.), 10,816; Turner (Pro.), 1,551. Iid District: Page (Dem.), 10,670 Capron (Rep.), 10,021; Lewis (Pro.), 1,741.

OHIO REPUBLICANS ON THE OUTLOOK.

THEY ARE SURE THAT HARD WORK WILL SE CURE THE STATE THIS YEAR.

Washington, April 6 (Special).- The fight in Ohlo this year," said H. L. Conger, of Akron, Ohio, forthis year, and the merly National Republican Committeeman from his State and Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee to-day, will be particularly hot. The Democrats are elated by their success last year and also by the smallness of the Republican majority in Ohio. They are counting upon the beneficial result which is supposed to flow from Federal patronage and influence, but in my opinion the disappointed and disgruntled Democrats will more than offset this. The Republicans, however, have got to get down to work and take their coats off if they mean to carry the State, and they have at present a perfect organization."

General C. 77. Grosvenor, of Cincinnati, di-cussing

the alleged change of political sentiment in Ohio, said to-day: "I do not think there is any such change that need concern Republicans in my state very seriously. At the last Presidential election we lost a number of votes in the eastern district of the state bordering Pennsylvania among the as-aciated labor organizations in the iron and coal industries, acting in sympathy with the Homestend strikers. That was, however, a sudden impulse and we shall get back this vote this fall.

"Although there is no United States Senator to be elected from my State at the ensuing election, I believe that the contest will be the hottest ever fought in Ohio. Mr. McKinley will, of course, be nominated, and it will be a test battle on the ques-tion of protection or tariff reform. The election will tion of protection or tariff reform. The election will indicate the drift of sentiment and will be of decid d interest in this respect alons.

"It is a singular coincidence that the Republicans of Ohio when a Republican President has been elected have lost the State to the Democrats at the next yearly state election in every instance since the war, except the year following the election of Mr. Garrield. At that time he was lying side and the Democrats did not put forth any special efforts. There are now $50,000 voters in Ohio, and the normal Republican majority is about 20,0000. With 2,400 election precincts in the State it will be seen that a change of vote of two or three men in each precinct cuts an important agure; but I have no apprechensions as to the success of the Republicans."

GROKER WOULDN'T HEAR THE BOYLE MEN. HE TOLD THEM TO GO ABOUT THEIR BUSINESS -HE WON'T INTERFERE IN THE IXTH.

ammany Hall's troubles in the 1Xth Assembly Fitzpatrick, who was buried last week, are attract ing increasing attention in political circles. The fight is between the "old regulars" and the "newlight is between the "old regulars and the "new-comers," the latter being headed by James W. Boyle, the West Side oyster dealer, who became famous at the time of the dock investigation four years ago. Mr. Boyle, it may be remembered, employed Colonel John O'Eyrne to secure the passage of a legislatice act in Albany giving the New-York Oyster Dealers' Association the remainded, was not their all and half act in Allany giving Association the permanent use of their silp and built-head in the North River, for which the Colonel re-ceived a fee of $15,000, but fied to the Pacific Coast rather than tell the investigating Commissioners of Accounts with whom he divided the money. Mr. Boyle's reticence on the matter was also the subject of remark at the time.

Mr. Boyle used to train with the County Democracy, and only became a full-fledged Tammany warrior year or so ago. Since then he has been active in building up an opposition to the "stand-bys" of the IXth District organization, who are led by Sheriff John J. Gorman. Mr. Boyle's ambition is to get control of the district, and he is aided therein by members of the district committee who like him have been recently admitted, but see no chance for "getting a whack" at the loaves and fishes without an upheaval of some kind which would relegate the "old solers" to the rear. Boyle's candidate for leader is Alderman Patrick Keaffon, whom he was instrumental in putting on the Tammany ticket last year. If he cannot get Keahon chosen, he proposes to take the place himself. The opposition to Sheriff Gorman is based on the ground that he lives in Harlem, having moved out of the district years ago, and that he discriminates against the younger element in patronage matter. The Boyle faction put on such a de-termined front that "Boss" Croker thought it wise to announce that he would leave the whole subject of picking out Fitzpatrick's successor to the Tammany Hall General Committee of the IXth District, which stensibly elects the leader.

Yesterday Mr. Croker was visited in his private "den" in the East Fourteenth-st. temple by a big committee of Boyle men. William E. McGlun, an infinential dealer in gin and other intoxicants, headed the delegation. Other members were Aidermen Keahou, Theodore M. Roche, C. S. Dobbs, Michael Edesheimer and John Stafford. There were said to be seventy-five or eighty in the crowd. As many of them as possible got inside, and the rest gathered about the doorway.

"Honorable Richard Croker, Esquire," began Spo "Honorable Realize Croser, Esquire, began spokes, around on his pivoted chair and faced the mob. "We are here," continued McGinn, "to see if you are going to mix in this matter of the leadership of the IXth District, 'cause we are for James W. Boyle, y' see, and we wanted to find out, you know." Mr. McGinn did not get his sentence finished. Mr.

Croker cut the spokesman short. "Get right away out of here," he said, "and attend

"Get right away out of here," he said, "and attend to your own business, if you have any. I have nothing whatever to say about your district matters. You must settle your disagreements among yourselves. I won't be bothered with them."

Mr. Croker's visitors locked astonished, for they remembered that it was only a short time ago that he drove a delegation out of his office which came from the 1st District, headed by the commanding form of Alderman Flynn, because he and his fellow-braves came to protest against the "Boss's" choice of Colonel Michael C. Murphy for lender, as against the wishes of all the old Wigwam element of the Battery. But the Boyle men did not stoy to argue with the Can of Tammany Hall. They hurried to a heighboring "rum-joint" and compared notes. The result was a declaration that they have enough votes in the Tammany Hall General Committee of the district to win "hands down," Out of 307 members, they claim 240 for Boyle, or whoever may be decided upon for leader against Sheriff Gorman. The committee will riset this evening at the district headquarters, No. 587 Hudson-st.

"HUNYADI" WATERS.

Paragraphs have recently appeared in some Newspapers here stating that a New-York firm of mineral water dealers are the lessees in America of the Hunyadi Waters of Buda Pest, and respectively sole agents in the United States for the famous Hunyadi springs of Hungary.

These statements are ABSOLUTELY false, Ind the intention with which they are made

Before any Hunyadi Water was practically known in the United States, The Apollinaris Company, Limited, of London, widely and successfully introduced the Hunyadi Janes Water, the Propeleter in Buda Pest of the Springs having entrusted to them, for a term of years still unexpired, the sole sale of this water in England and in all transmarine places. Hunyadi Janes Water having become very popular, quite a number of other Waters are now offered for sale, under names, of which the word Hunyadi forms part, and in bottles, and with labels, closely resembling appearance and color those long used for Hunyadi Janos Water.

An examination of the ballots showed that the apparent majority of Mr. McAllister showed that the apparent majority of Mr. McAllister was caused by an error on the part of some of the inspecters. In many cases the inspector in detaching the numbered stub had falled to follow the scored line and in this way had torn into the ticket and thus cut off Mr. Fell's mine. The recount gives Mr. Pell a majority over Mr. McAllister of 65 votes.

Brooklyn, was held until to day by Justice Mende, of the Yorkville Police Court, in a charge of grand larceny, preferred by Madame Marie Ranke, who lives at the Murray Hill Hotel. Mr. McGrath is the manager of the McGrath Musical Bureau, and Madame Ranke ts a well known elocutionist. The action was based on a check for $25, given by Madame Ranke for ad vertising. Medame Ranke says that he neither had the advertisements inserted, nor accounted for the money. McGrath lays the blame to Msdame Ranke's

Madame Ranke told a Tribune reporter last evening that she had stopped payment on the other checks because McGrath had failed to account for the previous one, and because of other things that she had learned concerning him since he had furnished music for the Columbus parade. "This is the third piece of hitigation which has arisen in consequence of my reading." she said, "in which the Court has decided in my favor, although I have appeared alone and with out the aid of counsel in each case."

The Hotel and Clubhouse Walters' Alliance las

cening opened its new clubhouse at No. 50 East Tenth st. Preceding the opening the unions which ompose the club paraded through the leading street of the city. The organizations taking part were th German Waiters' Union No. 1, Bartenders' Union No. 2, Hotel and Restaurant Waiters' Alliance No. 9, Herbert Union No. 11 (cclored), Waiters' Alliance No. 19, Cooks' Alliance No. 37, Spanish Waiters' Alliance, No. 38, Urania Quartet Club, Walters Benefit Society, the Unter Uns and Humanitat clubs The Carl Sahm Club furnished the ausle. The grand marshal was Joseph Gubler; his aid was Emil Haas the following commanded the different divisions Charles Winters, Robert Winston, Richard Alfers, M Browne, Henry Meisel and Charles Meyer. Several fine silk flags, the American, Spanish and German colors, were carried, and one transparency bore thes words: "We Wear Mustactes," thus signifying their contempt for the edict issued by some of the prominent hotel keepers.

When the parade reached the clubbouse, which is a comfortable and well furnished establishment, speech naking and good cheer were in order. Samuel Com pers made an address approving the course adopted by the waiters, who had endenvored, by reasonable means, to better their condition. He was followed by several others, who made brief addresses. These speakers were Christopher Evans, John Mee, George Hertyberg, Henry Melsel, William F. Connofty, Max Braune and William McKenna.

HAMLET OUT OF DENMARK.

HE IS NOW IN THE HASTY PUDDING CLUB.

SEEN LAST NIGHT WITH THE SPORT, THE SPOOK AND THE SPINSTER, ALL OF HARVARD.

would be appointed the Brooklyn members of the board by Mayor Boody. The Mayors and Controller of the two cities are members ex officio.

No little disappointment was expressed yesterday that Mayor Gilroy had been unable to find citizens of the character, ability and prominence needed to give assurance of the new board's integrity and capacity for administration. One of the appointees, Mr. Skinner, is an agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, a foreign corporation, which has above the At last this business of the ghost of Hamlet's father walking about the parapets of Elsinore cold and hungry has come to an end. Last evening those who were at Chickering Hall saw that once peripatetic spook riding in a lunch wagon and toasting his feet on waffle irons. The ghost walks no longer. The spectre who appeared last evening might have stood it out, for he was only "doomed to walk" for an Easter term. If he had been a Yale ghost he might have been conscientious enough to make an amateur pedestrian record, but he was Frotningham, '94, of Harvard. There was an air of travesty lurking around when the curtain went up in Chickering Hali and revealed the members of the Hasty Pudding Club of Harvard University in "Hamlet, Prince of Denmark; or the Sport, the Spook and the Spinster."
It was not the first time that the club has ladled out theatricals, and it will keep the histrionic kettle beiling for many years to come.

Yesterday afternoon a bevy of matinee girls and their escoris invaded Chickering Hall and some gave a concert. The entertainment was of so classical a nature that the managers of the concert tore down all the scenery of the Hasty Pudding Club and threw it into the back hall. It took some time for the stage manager to rescue Denmark from decay and to reconstruct the parapets of Elsinore. The spectators waited until after 9 o'clock for the ghost to ride, but they did not become imputient. It was an assemblage which was heartly in syrapathy with the young actors and it would have remained there until the crack of doom. The men who saw "Hamlet" last evening were handsome and wealthy and the women were beautiful. The men were handsome because they were well-trained, athletic Harvard students and they must have been wealthy because they wore white waistcoats. A woman who takes off her hat in a theatre is benutiful in the eyes of any man. At Chickering Hall ast evening women removed their bonnets. The baton of the orchestra leader waved high in 'air, there was a crenking of cords, with a murmur of suppressed "ahs," and the Castle of Eisinore loomed into view. There was Bolognius, with a dogged look; Laertes, lank, lean and laconic; there was Gertrude,

Queen of Depmark, imperious, unimpressionable and implacably immovable. The stage manager of the Hasty Ludding Club gave a stir with his ladis and the plot thickened. The villain was Horatio, who plotted to marry Hamlet to Ophelia, and was foiled. Then the sport, the spook and the spinster were stirred in, and there came forth bubbling mirth and lively farce. Then there was the chorus. Never was so able-bodied, youthful and vigorous a band of dancers seen upon any other stage. The hearts were light, their feet were heavy, and the walls of Elsinore trembled. They appeared in season and out of season. As Hamlet remarked, choras is always following me around. Guess I'll have to sing something." That was not such an original way to introduce a song, but it was a much better way than to say; "My friend is down the street, and while I'm waiting I'll just rehearse my little song and dance." The melancholy Dane, James A. Wilder, '95, out-Hamleted Hamlet, and rived Salmon was asleep in the parlor with his feet purple tights. He had a pensive Philadelphia look, but he went through the piece in a way that was Chicagoan. He danced and sang and joket like the interlocutor at a minstrel show. A gigantic form was the Queen of Denmark. Then there was Laertes, a combination of six holders. A respectively, and the combination of six holders. Are also as a place of the combination to combination of six holders. violated every precedent, except that of wearing f Sir Andrew Aguecheck, and a nineteenth cenmy dandy, who, to quote the gentle words of the fidr queen, -could give little casino to the president of the Paresis Club." The fair Gertrude had decreed that Hamphlet should marry Ophelia, to the great mortification of Juliet, to whom Hamlet, was engaged. ophella was not handsome. She had a nose like the ower which looks toward Damaseus, hair of a brickdust hue and she wore crinoline. "Your face," said liamlet, surrowially, to her, "Is absolutely unfit for publication. Get thee to a hennery. Get thee gone. Around thee I draw the exclusive circle of the Vaudeville Club. Besides I don't love you. You were only my summer girl."

To avoid marrying Ophelia, Hamlet went crary. ophelia followed sult, and the Queen suggested that they contract "A Mad Marriage." At the advice of his father, whom he affectionately called "Popper," Hamlet resolved to become saue. "Popper" was not a conventional ghost. He first appeared to his sonriding in a lunch-cart stolen from Harvard Square. his father, whom he affectionately called "Popper," thinket resolved to become saue. "Popper" was not a conventional ghost. He first appeared to his son riding in a lunch-cart stolen from Harvard Square. "Popper's" countenance was Milesian in its make-up, and he looked strangely like "John the Orangeman." He declined to become lavisible until Hamlet gave nim a quarter for a haircut, and altogether he was an impecunious, if not a melancholy, spook, and a sepuichral sponge. "Popper" got Hamlet into so many scrapes that the lovesick Dane was arrested by the National Guard and taken away about with a basket of flowers singing plaintive melo-To Hamlet she offered a beet as "beets to the beat," she had the mistlefoe and its patent antidote, garlic, and grief-compelling onlons and laudatory cabbages delithout number. Finally, the plot was cabbages arrived by Eoseneranz and Guildernstern selling a remarkable remedy to all the characters at a marked down sale. "Popper" appeared and married all the principals and chorus to one another.

of the Hotel Aberdeen, and he also conducted the Edinburgh Hotel and the Hotel Castle, at One hundred-and-third-st. and Amsterdam-ave. Le who was for years a clerk in the Aberdeen, had borrowed money to take the Aberdeen and also the two uptown hotels. His business did not succeed. and he failed in the Edinburgh and Castle Hotel and gave them up, after running nearly $12,000 to debt. Among his creditors were two grocers-Hewitt, of No. 2,001 Third-ave., and Maloney, of Onehundred-and-first-st. and Tenth-ave. He was in debt to his son-in-law, Charles F. Myer, and also to his daughter, Mrs. Myer. At last, on March 1, he sold the hotel to his son-in-law under a chattel mortgage foreclosure and went South. The consideration of this transaction was $1.

On March 15 Marshal Salmon and Alexander went to the Hotel Aberdeen and told Mr. Myer that they had a judgment against the hotel for about $500 in favor of Maloney, the grocer. They were accompanied the state of t by four other men, and finally induced Myer, after scaring him out of his wits, to go to Maloney's store, where he gave Alexander a check for $25, a check to Maloney for $30, and three notes due in thirty, sixty and hinety days for $100 each.

On Wednesday night at 1 o'clock Mr. Myer was aitting in the hotel office, when seven men filed into the office. Marshal Salmon and John V. Alexander were at their head. Salmon announced that they had executions against the hotel for $906.28, and that they intended to levy on all the property which they could find. Salmon then went behind the desk and took possession of the money-drawer and safe, while the others scattered throughout the hotel, waking guests and raising a general hubbub.

About 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Myer sent for his lawyer, Mr. Offenbach, and when he aron a velvet chair. Alexander was asleep in the redoor open. After helping themselves to what they wanted they returned to go to sleep.

On his arrival Mr. Offenbach aroused Sc asked what he was doing in the place, but for answer Salmon waved the four attachments in his face. Policeman McPartlin, of the West Thirtieth-st. station, was called in, but he was unable to do any-Salmon. At 3 o'clock a. m. the invaders changed their minds about removing the furniture, and began to drag it back into the rooms. As the guests, who were awakened by the clatter, began to stick their heads out of the doors, they were told that inside of four hours they must vacate the hotel, or they would be thrown out. After this the invaders again visited the winercom. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning Offenbach appeared at the Jefferson Market Court and secured from Justice
